Where are the owls now? Winkus Oddpick

The new years for the school of magic were scheduled to start this week, but the question raised by many witches and wizards is where are the owls? The owls have now delayed themselves by a week and now are making kids impatient. The acceptance letters usually arriving a week before the start of the new school year for the first years at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, have not yet reached houses of young witches and wizards! Has something that has never happened till now happen? Is the school of magic hiding something from us or has the lack of a Headmaster made the administration inefficient? The Minister of Magic yesterday announced that if the letters are not received in a week, the school year will be canceled, also canceling the O.W.l.s and the N.E.W.T.s. The Wizarding Examination Authority was unhappy with this decision, but this has become the subject of celebrations amongst students.

Ravenclaw wins after disappointing match
Ginny Weasley, Quidditch Respondent

Ravenclaw won yesterday after a very disappointing match against Hufflepuff. The winning team won after winning the snitch and not even scoring any points! The Hufflepuff, on the other hand put up a very bad show of their skill in the popular wizard sport. The match did not receive much of a crowd either. The final scores were Ravenclaw: 150 and Hufflepuff: 75.

Failed Wronski Feint Causes Paralysis to Player

Ginny Weasley, Quidditch Respondent

A Appleby Arrows player, Gregory Cotton yesterday was practicing the most difficult of all Quidditch tricks, the Wronski Feint, in which a player drops down from a considerable height and pulls up just when he reaches the ground. Unfortunately the trick failed and he hit the ground, causing his spinal cord to break, resulting in paralysis. The healers at St.Mungo's have said that no major injury has been caused and that the player might resume practicing for the Quidditch World Cup after two weeks. The healers are using ordinary Skele-Grow to treat the injury.

Wandless wizards rots in Muggle Prison

Daily Prophet News Network

The Department of Accidents and Magical Catastrophes has brought in a shocking report. The report claims that there is a wizard behind the bars in a Muggle prison. The wizard is still unidentified. This is not the only shocking thing, but the report also says that the wizard is without his wand.

The Minister of Magic stated that "...the wizard was deprived of his wand but the accident which took place nearly a week ago where a wizard fell off is broomstick while flying over London might prove to be the cause.
